Expected Benefits derived & how it will be helpful to the college: The government of Norway through its Department of Research and Education is spending huge amounts for collaborative research especially with the developing countries. There is an European Union research program called 'HORIZON 2020' which aims at finding out common problems and solutions that can be adapted and implemented. Anyone can apply for research funds through HORIZON 2020 with a viable proposal and identified partner institutes in Norway or in other EU countries. This one day academic program aimed at exploring how the institutes of India and Norway could collaborate to develop smart sustainable societies. There were four parallel sessions on different aspects of sustainable societies and I being a presenter in one of the sessions .i.e. Waste and Wastewater Management for Sustainability got an opportunity to interact with the people working in the water management in their respective domains. Networking with the academicians from other institutes of India and Norway would help in undertaking collaborative research projects in future.
